About Us

Not all our clients are businessmen or women. Some look for more personal advice, and far more personal services, particularly as this part of the world has become an important destination for retail as well as commerce. A part of the world where ongoing regional disputes can so easily spill over into more settled and affluent lifestyles. And so for a few personal and corporate security has become paramount.

Trudos Security have brought together a group of highly trained specialists from around the world with extensive experience in ensuring the safety of our clients. We are expert in the protection of people, their property and physical and electronic information, be that for private, corporate or political use.

Our services are extensive and discrete and available, as and when required, in one location or many, for long term sophisticated projects, or simply for the short term comfort of those being protected, or their families.

Services

Protection

Irrespective of why it happens, whether it is because of the nature of work, political position, personal or corporate wealth or celebrity, for some, living under a spotlight of recognition, even by those that present no intentional threat or discomfort, can be overwhelming. And it is often those that have no say in this, such as younger family members, who feel this more acutely than most.

Cyber security

The services offered by Trudos Synergy have been designed specifically to reassure our clients of our presence and ability to minimise unwanted intrusion into their personal and business lives. Or, where we have governments as clients, those of their ministers and information systems. And just as importantly their families and friends or management.

Internet

Our own priority is to ensure that, whilst our clients may have to accept that physical and technological precautions maybe necessary, we will always seek to minimise its effect and any disruption it may cause to their daily lives.

For You

Personal security is often the first that is provided by the head of the family and the last that is taken for themselves. Deciding that their family should feel secure whilst traveling, shopping or simply enjoying life outside of the home, is a relatively easy step. Perhaps more contentious, as it is perceived to be more intrusive, more restrictive, is protection at home and at school.

And it is often the case that the person most at risk and most needing of this same level of security is preoccupied with ensuring the safety of everyone else within the family.

Trudos Security's team have considerable experience in dealing with the most demanding of clients and reluctant members of the family. We take every step to ensure that whilst there is a real need for our people to be seen by those that would do our clients and their families harm, our presence in their lives is as unobtrusive as possible, whether that be physically, or by the use of the latest technology and personal protection devices.

For Your Company

To a large extent, protection of our clients and their property within the workplace is a far easier proposition than in the home, as many of the sensitivities of family do not apply, and our presence seen as nothing more than another tool to ensure people work in a safe environment, and that which is valuable to the company is kept secure.

Of course, a physical presence, be it human or mechanical, is the most obvious form of protection. But where needed, we install the very latest cutting edge technology to protect the highest levels of sensitive information from anticipated and unanticipated threats, from both external and internal individuals and agencies.

Our services can be used to protect against a known specific threat, until such times as that has passed, or for longer and ongoing projects, where the likely timing of any attack, its origin, and how it will manifest itself is unknown. Both receive the same exceptional levels of service, discretion and professionalism.

For Governments

Many of our personnel have either direct or indirect experience of working with Governments or their agencies. Particularly when working on inter-government projects, past experience and personal contacts are essential to delivering a seamless service, as a sole provider or in coordination with one or more other specialist service providers.

Our services for such clients range from people on the ground to primary or back up surveillance technologies, from active or passive protection and security of key individuals to that of borders and data protection.

And because of our international make up, we bring with us experience gained in situations and locations that may not previously have been common to those we are now asked to protect. Above all is our dedication to our clients wishes and the professionalism and discretion that only comes from a company that truly understand the challenges for our clients in each of the locations in which they and their own personal have to operate.

Training

For clients that wish to become personally involved in their own protection, and want to ensure they have at least some basic personal protection skills, we offer a range of initiatives, from one off personal protection advice to ongoing full self-defense instruction.

All of our people are trained to an exceptional operating level, but also trained as personal instructors. This means that whichever one of them is assigned to look after the personal security of our client, they can also in turn instruct them.

Nowadays data protection is a very sophisticated industry. Trudos Security, can help to give a better understanding of it to those clients that want it.

We can arrange a variety of courses on electronic and cyber surveillance techniques, ranging from simple steps to ensure your devices are safe, to dealing with more aggressive and focused attacks, on both personal devices or those in the workplace.
